Teacher Answer Key

Case Study

1. They used mobile stations that engaged children and adults in sorting collected trash, explaining the journey of litter and its effects on wildlife.

2. Businesses adopting reusable incentives indicate that environmental practices are becoming normalized, suggesting a higher chance of lasting positive changes.

Multiple Choice

1. D

2. A

3. B

Matching

1-E, 2-D, 3-A, 4-C, 5-B

Fill-in-the-Blank

1) Over-tourism, 2) bans, 3) compostable

Short Answer (Sample Responses)

Q1: Organizers can set up education booths, interactive recycling stations, and signage about local wildlife. They might also feature presentations on reducing single-use plastics.

Q2: Cooperation ensures resources are managed effectively—locals, tourists, and officials can share responsibility for waste disposal and habitat protection.

Q3: Sustainable practices protect the natural appeal that draws visitors, safeguard local habitats, and foster a community culture that values conservation.